Art Unit: 3677

- Claim 1, lines 3, 4 and 7, claim 2, lines 3, 4 and 6 and claim 3, lines 3, 4, 6 and 11 recites "E.S.L. ". This should be replaced with the term --Electronic Shelf Labels--.

- Claim 1, lines 4 and 7, --computer-- should be inserted between "ESL" and "system".

Correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

6. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

7. Claims 1 and 2 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kayser et al. (US 6,089,453).

A computerized consumer shopping tool comprises an Internet web service system (42) and a plurality of store specific electronic shelf labels computer systems (40) each linked to the Internet web services system for communicating therewith (Fig. 2). Each electronic shelf labels system includes a database of electronic display tag display information records (28), a multiplicity of such records including a flag which when set acts as an annunciator trigger for operation of an annunciator in a corresponding display tag (20) (C. 45, L. 59-67 and C. 46, L. 1-15). Each electronic shelf label system is operable to communicate information to the Internet web service system regarding products (C. 13, L. 20-35). The communicated information includes the state of the flag associated with the products display tag information record (C. 13, L. 20-35). The Internet web service system monitors the flag of such records (C. 13, L. 20-35).

Art Unit: 3677

A computerized consumer shopping tool comprises an Internet web service system (42) and at least one electronic shelf labels system (40) linked to the Internet web services systems for communication therewith (Fig. 2). The electronic shelf labels system includes a plurality of electronic display tags (20) associated with products (C. 45, L. 59-67 and C. 46, L. 1-15). A multiplicity of the tag includes annunciators such as lights (C. 39, L. 59-67, C. 40, L. 1-12, C. 45, L. 59-67 and C. 46, L. 1-15). The electronic shelf labels system operable to control the annunciators to identify tags that utilize a tiered pricing schedule and the display tags controllable to display a plurality of the tiered prices (C. 39, L. 59-67, C. 40, L. 1-12, C. 45, L. 59-67 and C. 46, L. 1-15).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

8. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

9. Claims 3 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kayser in view of Deaton et al. (US 6,292,786 B1).

Kayser discloses a computerized consumer shopping tool comprises an Internet web services system (42) and at least one electronic shelf labels system (40) associate with at least one store and linked to the Internet web services system for communication therewith (Fig. 2). The electronic shelf labels system includes a plurality of electronic display tags (20) associated with the products. A multiplicity of the tags includes annunciators such as lights (C. 39, L. 59-67, C. 40, L. 1-12, C. 45, L. 59-67 and C. 46, L. 1-15). The electronic shelf labels systems operable to control the annunciators to identify tags that utilize a tiered pricing schedule (C. 39, L. 59-67, C. 40, L. 1-12, C. 45, L. 59-67 and C. 46, L. 1-15). The display tags controllable to display a plurality of the price tiers (C. 39, L. 59-67, C. 40, L. 1-12, C. 45, L. 59-67 and C. 46, L. 1-15). Kayser fails to disclose that the Internet web services system is operable to provide a given consumer with information regarding products of the at least one store. However, Deaton teaches a computerized consumer shopping tool accessible through an Internet web services system (12). The Internet web services system utilizes a tiered pricing schedule by providing incentives or coupons to a customer (C. 7, L. 46-59, C. 17, L. 54-57 and C. 18, L. 1-36). The Internet web services system is operable to provide a given consumer with information regarding products of the at least one store which are on the tiered pricing schedule (Fig. 1). The tiered pricing schedule stimulates sales by providing incentives and coupons to motivate the customer into purchasing the product (C. 2, L. 11-46). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to have the tiered pricing schedule accessible through an Internet web services system as taught by Deaton in the consumer shopping tool disclosed by Kayser such that the tiered pricing schedule is located at the at least one store such that the Internet services system is operable to provide a given consumer with information regarding products of the at least one store that are on the tiered pricing schedule, based upon information communicated from the ESL to the Internet web services system shown in Figure 2 of Kayser. Doing so, stimulates sales by providing incentives and coupons to motivate the customer into purchasing the products.

Deaton teaches that the Internet web services system is operable to identify the pricing tier applicable to the given consumer and to provide the given consumer with pricing information for that pricing tier (C. 18, L. 5-36).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Pfeiffer et al. (US 5,198,644), Ackerman et al. (US 5,461,561), Briechle (US 5,704,049), Goodwin, III et al. (US 5,753,900), Goodwin, III (US 5,907,143), Goodwin, III et al. (US 5,943,654) and Swartzel et al. (US 6,552,663 B2) are cited to show state of the art with respect to electronic shelf labels controlled by a computer system.

Begun et al. (US 6,012,244) is cited to show state of the art with respect to a display unit to capture shoppers' attention.

Submissions of your responses by facsimile transmission are encouraged. Technology center 3600's facsimile number for before final communications is (703) 872-9326. Technology center 3600's facsimile number for after final communications is (703) 872-9327. Recognizing the fact that reducing cycle time in the processing and examination of patent applications will effectively increase the patent's term, it is to your benefit to submit responses by facsimile transmission whenever permissible. Such submission will place the response directly in our examining group's hands and will eliminate Post Office processing and delivery time as well as PTO's mailroom processing and delivery time. For a complete list of correspondence not permitted by facsimile transmission, see MPEP § 502.01. In general, most responses and/or amendments not requiring a fee, as well as those requiring a fee but charging such fee to a deposit account, can be submitted by facsimile transmission. Responses requiring a fee that the applicant is paying by check should not be submitted by facsimile transmission separately from the check.

Responses submitted by facsimile transmission should include a Certificate of Transmission (MPEP § 512). The following is an example of the format the certification might take:

I hereby certify that this correspondence is being facsimile transmitted to the Patent and Trademark Office (Fax No. (703) 872-9326) on (Date) .

(Typed or printed name of person signing this certificate)

Art Unit: 3677

If your response is submitted by facsimile transmission, you are hereby reminded that the original should be retained as evidence of authenticity (37 CFR 1.4 and MPEP § 502.02). Please do not separately mail the original or another copy unless required by the Patent and Trademark Office. Submission of the original response or a follow-up copy of the response has been transmitted by facsimile will cause further unnecessary delays in the processing of your application, duplicate responses where fees are charged to a deposit account may result in those fees being charged twice.

Any inquiry of a general nature or relating to the status of this application or proceeding should be directed to the receptionist whose telephone number is (703) 308-1113.
